World Water Day
22nd March 2017

Dear Parents and Carers,

Next Wednesday, 22nd March, is World Water Day. This is a day about raising awareness, raising money and taking action to tackle the water crisis. Today, there are 663 million people living without access to a safe supply of water - something that we perhaps take for granted every day. The Juniors will be getting some valuable input on this later this week as I have arranged for a Wateraid speaker to give a talk to the Junior School on the work they do and the ways in which we can all help.

Year 1 are currently highly motivated and energised on the subject of water, as this is one of our lines of inquiry this term... they have asked Mr Tasker if we can have a 'Wearing Blue for World Water Day' next Wednesday, to coincide with World Water Day. He has kindly agreed to this and we would be delighted if your child (Juniors only) could come to school next Wednesday dressed in blue (or, indeed, as a raindrop, as per Raffie's suggestion) for the suggested donation of £1 (to be given to your child's class teacher).

Year 1 are busy planning other things for World Water Day (details to follow) and they have suggested we split the sum raised between Wateraid and Sidmouth Lifeboat, another charity close to our hearts.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask.
